

The chart displays sentiment data over a seven-day period. The x-axis represents the days of the week, and the y-axis represents the volume of sentiment. The legend indicates three categories: Neutral (blue), Negative (orange), and Positive (green). The data shows a strong daily rhythm, with sentiment activity peaking during the day and dipping at night. The 'Neutral' sentiment is the most frequent, followed by 'Negative', and then 'Positive'. The 'Negative' sentiment shows the most dramatic fluctuations, with several sharp peaks throughout the week. The 'Positive' sentiment is the least frequent and remains relatively stable at a low level.
